MEMORANDUM FOR: Chief of Operations
Physical, Technical & Overseas Security

25X1
FROM:

[Redacted]
Chief of Operations
Personnel Security and Investigations

SUBJECT: Soviet Life Magazine

1. A number of Agency employees have recently received unsolicited invitations to subscribe to Soviet Life Magazine. It is not known at this time whether this rash of mailings, all of which originated in the Soviet Union, is directed only at Agency employees or includes others of the general populace. No reports have yet come to our attention from the Directorate of Operations; however, solicitations have been received by members of all other Directorates.

2. It is requested that all Area Security Officers be made aware of this situation and report any cases coming to their attention directly to [Redacted] Security Analysis Group. Interviews will be conducted with a limited number of recipients in an effort to determine the source of the referenced mailing list.

I call this to your attention only so you will be aware of it. It may well be other people are also receiving such solicitations. Karen, as you know, is my secretary.

I am sure you will note that this was mailed from the Soviet Union and not locally. Please return this to me when it has served your purpose.

P.S. [Redacted] John F. Blake also received the same "invitation."

SOVIET LIFE

COME TO THE SOVIET UNION . .

and discover its variety, color and excitement for yourself!

Here's just a sample of the picture-filled articles and features you'll find in SOVIET LIFE magazine

Who Runs the State? — article on the highest legislative body of the country — the Supreme Soviet of the USSR — and its deputies.

Gymnastics Champions — Soviet women's olympic team, including Olga Korbut, win medals and millions of admirers the world over.

Soviet Republics Today — economic, cultural development and everyday life in the union republics, autonomous republics, national regions and areas.

Society and Nature — a special view of today's ecological problems, including USSR—USA ecology studies.

America and the Decembrists — one of the articles about a history of Russian-American relations during and after the American Revolution.

Cooperation on the 180th Meridian — Soviet-American Bering sea expedition and other scientific projects.

Two Trends in the Movies — a leading Soviet film critic analyzes intellectual and emotional film making.

The Moscow Kremlin — an "inside" tour of the home of the Supreme Soviet, one of the world's ancient, yet very contemporary, architectural ensembles.

Soviet Polyclinics — reporters interview patients and snap candid photos in a polyclinic to learn who visits the doctor and for what.

Huge Dams in Siberia — construction of hydroelectric power stations supply electricity to newly built industrial centers in Siberia.

Automobile Industry — fast increase in car manufacturing and what Soviet scientists think of the problem of transportation in big cities.

Aeroflot, the Biggest Air Line — Soviet planes fly to 63 countries, domestic routes cover 497,000 miles, Aeroflot services annually 90 million passengers.

Soviet-American Docking in Space — reports on preparation for joint flight of Soyuz and Apollo and exchange of data obtained in space research.

THE EDITORS OF SOVIET LIFE MAGAZINE
CORDIALLY INVITE YOU TO "COME TO THE SOVIET UNION"...THROUGH THE PAGES OF SOVIET LIFE:

Dear Reader:

I am writing to you directly from our editorial offices in Moscow because I think that you, as a curious and concerned individual, will be especially interested in this opportunity to discover more about what is going on in the Soviet Union.

SOVIET LIFE is the only English-language magazine distributed in the United States under the cultural exchange agreement between the USA and the USSR. Under the terms of the agreement the United States distributes the Russian-language magazine AMERICA on a reciprocal basis in the Soviet Union.

The reciprocal arrangement was worked out in the hope that "these exchanges may contribute to the broadening of mutual understanding between the American and Soviet peoples and to the development of relations between the two countries."

Still and all, you may be wondering just why SOVIET LIFE should appeal particularly to you. What's in it? Why is it so special?

(over, please)

SOVIET LIFE is a magazine for readers who believe that the key to understanding a country is knowing as much as possible about its people. SOVIET LIFE acquaints you with the Soviet people, tells you what they're thinking, shows you how they live.

Through the articles in SOVIET LIFE you'll meet Russian chess grandmasters and a vigorous 110-year-old Georgian farmer, Siberian construction workers and lovely Bolshoi ballerinas... get to know a Moscow office worker, a Kazan university student, a Latvian legislator, an Ukrainian collective farmer. You'll have an inside track on new and exciting Soviet advances in science and space exploration, learn the way the Soviet state is run, visit a collective farm, and discover how Soviet children are taught their ABC's.

You can get SOVIET LIFE at an introductory rate - $ 5.00 - about 50% less than newstand price, or two-years subscription for $ 8.00.

You may send your check or money order, or we can bill you later. But I do suggest you use the enclosed "Invitation" card today.

And may I say ДОБРО ПОЖАЛОВАТЬ (Welcome):

Sincerely yours,

Alexei Flerovsky
